Seiskaya Ballet embarks on its 35th season

Located in the picturesque Flowerfield campus in St. James, Seiskaya Ballet opens its 35th season with an eye towards the future. The hallway walls are covered with an amazing array of newspaper and magazine articles. The 4,000 square foot studios have plaques and commemorative photos on nearly every square inch of lobby space. Seiskaya Ballet has launched over sixty professional careers with five dancers alone going to American Ballet Theatre. The list of accomplishments of current and former students are well documented. Medals and awards have been garnered from across the globe at international, national and regional ballet competitions.

Seiskaya Ballet offers two distinct programs: OPEN classes for adults and youths and the preprofessional Seiskaya Ballet Academy training program. OPEN classes require a placement class to determine proper class level. Limited spots are available in the Seiskaya Academy where admittance is by audition only. The Academy's motto is: World Class at your doorstep.

Seiskaya Ballet opens Tuesday, September 2. The telephone numbers are 631-862-6925 and 862-1722. A complete set of fall 2008 schedules are available on-line at www.seiskaya.com. A highlight of the holiday season, the dates for Seiskaya Ballet's vaunted Nutcracker at Stony Brook University's Staller Center for the Arts are December 13 & 14 and again on December 20 & 21. Exact times and ticket prices will be available on-line in mid-September at www.nutcrackerballet.com. ■
