Danielle Morano – an Accomplished Dancer

Danielle Morano, of St. James, an honors college scholarship student in her senior year at Butler University in Indianapolis, is pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in Dance Pedagogy. Danielle has performed numerous principal, soloist and corps roles with Butler Ballet and was featured as Sugar Plum Fairy in this season's "The Nutcracker." This past spring, Danielle garnered a principal role in Nacho Duato's "Por Vos Muero," which was the first time this acclaimed piece has ever been performed by a university dance department. Danielle has also traveled and performed with Butler Ballet in China, Russia and Poland.

Danielle Morano

Danielle is a graduate of Smithtown H.S. East and received her ballet training from age 5 through high school at the Seiskaya Academy in St. James, under the directorship of Valia Seiskaya. Danielle has attended numerous summer ballet intensives [which] include the School of American Ballet and Exploring Ballet with Suzanne Farrell at the Kennedy Center.

Upon graduation, Danielle plans to dance with a professional ballet company with future hopes to return to the academic setting as a professor and eventual chair of a university dance department.
